The channel migration hazard data show areas expected to be exposed in a 100-year period. In the upper portions of drainages in the study area (just below Mount Hood), channel migration hazards are severe.